MORGAN BRINGS UP THE MATTER

Say the Administration Is Doing Its Duty Property—House Seats Rinaker in Place

as to the capture of the Competitor by a Spanish warship and the condemnation to leath of United States citizens; whether mand has been made for the release of the United States citizens. The sens or said that while the case was one of condemnation to death of American citi-zens, yet no information was available except through press reports and rumors. The executive branch had not given the slightest information on the subject. He argued that it was the duty of the presilent under the constitution to keep con gress advised on the state of the Union and in particular on foreign affairs.

"Requests" Only a Courteous Cu Of late a courteous custom ha to adopt resolutions making requests on the president for information, but this did not relieve the president from the duty of giving full information. And it was only of late days, Morgan said, that this failure of the executive to give information to congress had grown up. When some question was raised by Sherman as to the propriety of Morgan making public use of the testimony of Lawrence before the committee on foreign relations the Alabama senator sharply rejoined that there should be no such concentrate and hiding. should be no such concealment and hiding of facts from the country. Morgan said that the testimony of Lawrence, who was present at the Competitor trials at Ha-vana, showed the grossly irregular charac-ter of the precedings.

Should Send Ships to Cuba. "And yet," declared the senator, esident pays no more attention to the slaughter of some poor negro or mulatto in the Cuban army." Before congress ad-journed, he said, it should know from the president what the situation was, and if it was true that hundreds of men are penned up in a small room; whether these Ameri-can citizens are to meet death without a fair trial. "In the event that those American prisoners are not released and de-livered to the president," concluded Mor-gan, "we should authorize him to send ships of war to Cuba and make war suffi-

President Doing His Whom Duty.

Sherman said that such proceedings in the senate should be in executive session and the galleries were cleared. Sherman and Lodge then made brief explanation of their visit to the White House and their conference with the president, saying they had gone there as a sub-committee of the foreign relations committee. They ex-pressed the opinion as a result of that inpressed the opinion as a result of time all terview that the executive was using all due vigilance in the protection of the rights of American citizens, and said that rights of American citizens, and said that while it might be well enough for congress to put forth its opinion in regard to the situation in Cuba in the shape of a joint resolution there was little probability of getting such resolution through without prolonged debate which, in view of the general desire for early adjournment could not be had.

Palmer Takes Occasion to Con Politics in the Prairie State.

After Morgan had spoken and reiterated what he had said in open senate his reso lutions went to the calendar and the oper on was resumed, the bill for a constitutional amendment for popular 'election of senators being taken up. Mitchell of Oregon argued that the reform would do away with the pool room debauchery of primaries, eliminate the influence of local ses, minimize the influence of wealth, ate a closer relation between the people nd the senate, and overcome the ele of monarchy and aristocracy in the present system. The measure was supported also by Perkins of California.

by Perkins of California.

Palmer, in responding to a suggestion of Chandler that he (Palmer) might not be returned to the senate, asserted that new issues had risen since his former election after a popular canvass. "On these issues I have the misfortune to differ with the machine of my state," declared Palmer. "The machine has the control of Illinois. The machine has the control of other states. The machine is against me. I defy the machine, Whether the machine is stronger than the poople remains to be er than the people remains to be

At another point Painner said that throughout his political life he never had submitted to the machine. Like Sir Roger de Coverly, he had come into fash-ion about every ten years, and just now he was out of fashion. He was no longer in the political field. He had, he said, played his part in state and national affairs, and at all times he had insisted on acting as a free man. At this late day it was not for him to submit to the domination of a machine. Palmer went on to show that a most salutary result from popular elec-tion of senators would be freedom from machine control.

The matter was postponed to the second Monday in December next. The feeling for an adjournment was indicated by the introduction of a resolution by Aldrich fixing Monday next at 2 p. m. as the time for adjournment. Aldrich said there was a general desire to adjourn, and he believed the pending disagreements on appropriation bills could be wound up in twenty-four hours if a little pressure was exerted. The resolution was referred to the committee on appropriations. attee on appropriations.

ILLINOIS DELEGATION SOLID.

Rinaker Seated in the House in the Pince of Finis E. Downing.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The principal work of the house was the seating of Rinaker from the Sixtsenth Illinois district, in place of Downing, the sitting member, thus making the Illinois delegation in the house solid Republican. The Democrats fought this mensure to the extent of abandoning their seats in a body, but the chairman—Payne—refused to note this move and refused to put appeals from his decision. McMillin appealed for more time, saying that all the minority members of the committee were ill.

Grosvenor asked him in view of the declaring Rinaker entitled to the seat and it was agreed to—167 to 53. Only three Republicans—Evans of Kentucky, Moody of Massachusetts and Sherman of New York—voted with the Democrats against the resolution. Rinaker was escorted to the bar of the house by Cook of Illinois, where the oath was administered to him. The house also unsested Lockhart (Dem.) from the Seventh North Carolina district, giving the seat to Martin, a Populist indorsed by the Republicans. Today was made individual suspension day by a special rule, thus cutting off Kem in his obstructive tactics. A resolution was adopted requesting of the president and the several cabinet officers a detailed statement of the removals from office since ment of the removals from office since March 8, 1898, and the appointments since that date, together with the number of ex-soldiers who have been appointed, pro-moted, reduced or removed.

RAILWAY DEMANDS PROTECTION, But It Docun't Prevent Milwaukee Thug:

MILWAUKKE, June 6 .- Formal notice has been served on the sheriff of Milway kee county by the Electric Railway com pany that he must protect the company suburban lines and men who work there on, and if unable to do so a call must h made on the governor to order out troops. The notice was served through the company's attorneys. As a result of this noti-fication Sheriff Stanley took a force of fifty deputy sheriff to Silver City, the sub-urb where the iriots occurred Thursday night, and lined the street railway tracks with officers.

At midnight last night several shots were fired into an electric car at the corner of Eighteenth and Walnut streets. But passenger was in the car, E. H. mas, a Philadelphia business man. He received a bad wound in the leg. The shots came from a point on Eighteenth street and were continued as long as the car was in sight. The two men shot Thursday are still alive, but Motorman Breen cannot live. The police have learned that the party in the bush numbered twelve or fifteen persons. Six arrests have been

WINDRATH HANGED AT CHICAGO.

Man Who Murdered Cashler Birch Dies by the Hempen Collar.

CHICAGO, June 6 .- One minute after 13 o'clock yesterday Joseph Windrath was hanged in the north corridor of the coun ty jatl, thus paying the law's penalty for the murder of Carey B. Birch, cashier of the West Chicago Street Railway company at the Armitage avenue office. Nothing had been left undone to save his life and the most plausible plea put forward was that he was insane. A jury decided him sane after hearing the usual contradictory expert evidence. The prisoner did a pretty good insane act, at any rate, from the time he was convicted until the rope choked his utterance.

His plan was a wild shout of "Hang up Mannow (his accomplice in the murder); "Put him in the bad box;" "I don't want that hat"—these were his cries when he was saying anything and he was shouting them as he went through the trap. Just before the execution he made several os-tensible attempts to butt his brains out, but he didn't hurt himself. He was always a thief and bad man, according to his biographies in the papers here.

Statues to Meade and Han GETTYSBURG, June 6.-In the presence of a great throng of old veterans and other citizens yesterday statues were unveiled of General Meade and General Hancock on Gettysburg battlefield. The ceremonies were impressive, and the Meade statue was unveiled by George Gordon Meade, a grandson of the general.
